New Covid-related obligations for employees

As a result of changes to the German Infection Protection Act (IfSG), you can only enter the workplace if you are able to present a proof of vaccination, recovery or a negative test result.

You must have this proof with you at all times while working and also when using public transport, and you must present it during checks. Upon request by your employer, you are obliged to show them this proof as well. We hereby request that you do so.

If you fail to comply and do not present a proof of vaccination or recovery, you must present a current negative Covid test result not older than 24 hours on each working day. You are solely responsible for procuring such a test. Self-tests are not sufficient. You can use public testing sites (Bürger-teststellen) for this, for example.

If you fail to present either a proof of vaccination, recovery or a negative test result, you cannot carry out your duties and therefore are not entitled to remuneration. In addition, if you are not entitled to remuneration, you will also not receive remuneration in case of sickness.

If you enter the workplace without a proof of vaccination, recovery or negative test result, you risk being fined by the inspection authority.

Please promptly send us a copy of your proof of vaccination or recovery.
